Response Letter from C.H. Bridges, June 29, 1931

In this response letter from the War Department, General C.H. Bridges denies the request to move the Deringer and other artifacts to the new museum. His reasoning is that it would place focus on the criminal aspects of what happened and might inspire some to commit violence.

Letter courtesy of the National Park Service.